Websites for Community Groups

15th February 2016

What is a Community Group?

- Exists for the good of the community
- Managed and resourced by volunteers
- Membership open to all who share the values of the group
- Regulated by a constitution
- Members elect committee and officers
- Events and regular meetings bring people together
- Keen to promote services and activities

- WebSpringer is the technology behind Digital Fife websites
- Advanced websites can be created and maintained without specialist skills
- World-class accessibility
- Optimised for community groups
- Embeds Twitter feeds, YouTube videos, Google Drive folders and other social media
- Includes special features for community groups

Community Group features

1. List your events on your website and allow people to book
2. Let people register on your website, e.g. to receive the newsletter or apply for membership
3. Create private areas, e.g. for members and the committee
4. Send group e-mails and attachments to registered users, members, etc.
5. Let authorised users edit specific pages

A good community group website

- Looks modern, professional and well-designed
- Signposts users to accurate and up-to-date information
- Is worth visiting frequently – news, events, resources, etc.
- Lets users register and provides exclusive features for members
- Keeps members and others informed
- Makes it easy to enquire or make bookings
